Resolved: Should a cap be placed on the level of foreign investment in a country's businesses and land?

IDEA GENERATOR

Pros

- Economic Growth is best when it comes from within
- Putting a cap on foreign investment and so reducing the likelihood of a bubble economy developing acts as a spur to local investors to invest their money in the home economy.
- A cap would insulate the home economy from the extremities of the global economy.
- A cap makes a clear connection between national policy objectives and the economy.

Cons

- A cap would reduce inward investment. At the straightforward level of analysis, imposing a cap means limiting the amount of inward investment.
  - The message a cap sends out will scare off investors.
  - A cap would raise the cost of capital and so slow the economy.

See for example:

Person A: “In my opinion, I believe that a cap would insulate the home economy from the extremities of the global economy”.

Person B: “I strongly disagree with the proposition since I believe that a cap would reduce inward investment”.
